

PLAN TO MOVE FALL CROPS WITH FEDERAL RESERVE RESOURCES

BOARD WRITES TO THE TWELVE REGIONAL BANKS POINTING OUT HOW MEMBERS MIGHT HELP FINANCE MOVEMENT. FORESTALLS CONGESTION.

COTTON GETS MOST ATTENTION

Money Will Be Available for Handling Corn, Wheat and Others But Southern Staple Main Object—Ample Authority in Revenue Act to Meet the Situation.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Preliminary plans designed to make available the resources of the federal reserve system in the annual fall movement of crops have been worked out by the federal reserve board. Writing to the twelve regional banks, the board pointed out in a letter made public today, how members of the system might help to finance the movement.

The board's action was taken, the letter said, to forestall any possibility of congestion of crops this fall or lack of financial accommodation to move them and to avoid a recurrence of the stringency which in the past has marked this movement.

Although the board would apply its plan to wheat, corn and all other cereals, it devoted most attention to the cotton crop, which, it said, was peculiarly sensitive to abnormal conditions such as exist in the export trade.

Usually the crop movement has been taken care of by government deposits in banks or the issue of emergency currency under the Aldrich-Vreeland act, which expired last month. In place of these agencies, the board stated, there was ample authority in the federal reserve act to meet the situation this year.

"In view of the large surplus reserves now held by the federal reserve banks, by member banks and by other banks throughout the country," said the board's letter, "there should be no difficulty in affording the producers the assistance necessary to enable them to market their products in volume corresponding to the power of the trade to absorb them. In order to accomplish this end, it is suggested that federal reserve banks adopt a definite policy with reference to rediscounting paper secured by documents in satisfactory form evidencing the ownership of stored agricultural products. Through such a policy together with proper methods of warehousing federal reserves banks can assist the normal movement of staple agricultural products from the field to the factory or to the consumer."

Rediscounting of Notes.
"It is recommended that regulations governing the rediscount of notes covering advances on such products be issued by such of these federal reserve banks whose members are actively engaged in financing the movement of such crops to the market."

The board called special attention to the marketing of cotton because it was "clearly to the common interest that credits based upon this crop be protected as far as possible from the danger of demoralization." It showed that no staple commodity was subject to greater variations in price than cotton and quoted figures showing an average annual fluctuation on the New York cotton exchange of 5.38 cents per pound.

"Sudden and violent fluctuations," the letter continues, "are clearly to the advantage of neither the loaning banks, the producers, the manufacturer nor the consumer. They offer, on the contrary, an inviting field for the speculator and the money lender, and a reserve system, in making possible the more normal movement of the crop, be a contributing factor in reducing these fluctuations, it would have accomplished a great public good."

The board suggested that the reserve banks communicate with their members and others interested and pointed out that cotton producers, if they were to take advantage of the facilities of the system, for carrying cotton, should begin arranging for its proper storage and insurance as rapidly as possible.

"Federal reserve banks," said the letter, "should particularly point out to their members that they are prepared to rediscount the notes of farmers and merchants secured by proper warehouse receipts for cotton and accompanied by evidence of insurance."

State Grade and Market Value.

Member banks the letter said, which offer these facilities to federal reserve banks for rediscount should be ready to state the grade and market value of the cotton and the note should be in the customary collateral form, providing the right to call for additional security in event of material decline in market value.

"The amount to be advanced would be left primarily to the judgment of the member banks," said the letter. The board suggested that the reserve banks call attention to the desirability of reserving storage space for such cotton as is to be used as security for loans in localities where warehouse facilities are inadequate. The letter said that while there was not sufficient warehouse space in the south to take care of the entire cotton crop there probably was ample facility for the proper storage of all cotton like to be pledged for loans.

"It should be made plain," the board warned, "that compliance with the essential features of the plan herein outlined, modified as circumstances may demand, will be necessary for the normal marketing of this year's crop."

Earth Swallows Power Plant; Three Killed

Hudson, N. Y., Aug. 2.—Three men were killed and eight injured, one of whom may die, when the power plant of the Knickerbocker Cement company at Greenport, half a mile east of here, was submerged today in quicksand. The three dead men are laborers.

Without warning, the plant, together with land about it to the extent of three acres, caved in to a depth of thirty feet. The day gang was approaching the plant when the earth suddenly commenced to tremble and then started to cave in toward the buildings. The men fled and reached solid earth just as the huge power plant disappeared with a tremendous sucking noise.

According to survivors of the night gang, the first warning they had was a deep rumbling, which seemed to come from far beneath the surface. Immediately afterward the earth began to sink with a loud hissing sound as if water was being poured on red hot metal. The buildings crumpled, burying the men in the debris.

Officials of the state geologist's office believe that the power plant was built on a thin stratum of hard clay, which rested on a limestone foundation. A small stream ran through the cement company's grounds and it is believed this water seeped through the limestone and gradually turned it into a quicksand. Some years ago an orchard which stood on the site of the power plant disappeared during the night.

The buildings which vanished this morning consisted of a large power house, an 80-foot concrete smokestack, an elevator conveyor with another smokestack, a concrete storehouse and a large frame barn which held three horses and an automobile, all of which were buried. A large quantity of material, including 40,000 tons of trap rock also was engulfed.

Mexican Still at Large.

ing contemplated as a next step. The South and Central Americas have been keeping closely informed of the situation. In fact, the Brazilian minister in Mexico City has been the source to which the United States has turned during the last sixteen months for the care of the interests of Americans and foreigners in that distressed capital.

Would Aid in Occupation.
All the Pan-American governments have been receiving reports from their ministers and consuls. It is known that if the situation should come where armed force might be necessary to open the railroad to Mexico City for protection of the legations and non-combatants or should an armed occupation be necessary South and Central Americas probably would receive an invitation to share the work with the United States.

How the factions in Mexico would regard such a joint action is a matter of dispute. On one hand, the suggestion has been met with the declaration that some of the South American countries typified the so-called "Cientifico" element. On the other hand, the leaders have professed to be ready to embrace any plan for peace which included as its first object the maintenance of the territorial sovereignty of Mexico, free election and free restoration of the government to the constitutional line.

The conference is the step President Wilson and the cabinet had in mind when until his return. The recent almost kaleidoscope developments in Mexico City, however, are believed to have influenced the announcement of action at this time.

The state department was disturbed today by reports that Villa had had American and other foreign merchants from Chihuahua, confiscated their properties and executed six of their Mexican colleagues.

Protests on Villa's Activities.
American consular agents were called upon for immediate reports. Protests came from diplomatic representatives of several foreign governments. Coville Barclay, in charge of the British embassy in the absence of the ambassador, called at the state department today to protest against the reported seizure by Villa of property of British subjects and their expulsion from the country.

A message from Monterey conferred with Assistant Secretary Breckinridge of the war department, and Leon C. Canova, chief of the division of Mexican affairs. Dispatches to American consular officials were the direct result.

Enrique Lorente, Villa's Washington representative, also conferred with Mr. Breckinridge. He said he would endeavor to learn the facts from his chief.

Carranza advisers here are hopeful that the United States soon will recognize a defacto government to be set up in Mexico City by Carranza's forces and they have urged him to take decisive action toward reopening railway and wire communication with the capital.

JUDGE MASTERSON TELLS OF MINE

Texas Multi-Millionaire Was Born Near Spot Where Vitalitas Is Found.

Judge Harris Masterson of Houston, one of the wealthiest and most widely known men in Texas, was born and spent his boyhood days in the vicinity of the now noted mound in Brazoria county where crude Vitalitas is mined.

"It was a noted spot long before I was born," said Judge Masterson. "People from all around used the lava-like substance. Many came from distances, dug it out and carried it away with them."

"We had chills and fever in those days and the lava out of the mound was a cure for most anything. We used it for stomach troubles, for sores, rheumatism and as spring came on it was in every house as a tonic. Science can't beat this wonderful medicine. It has been proven by generations. Of course, it was then used crude and not in such splendid form as it is now given to the public."

Truly the virtues of Vitalitas have been proven by generations. As science now prepares it it is far better than in its crude form. It assists nature in speedily sweeping away derangements of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood. It will do you good. Eczema, tetter, bleeding piles and the like are cured by Vitalitas salve.

Jones had quarreled with his wife about the attentions he is said to have paid Miss Margaret Bittner, 21 years old. Mrs. Jones had gone to live with her brother and had brought suit for divorce and to prevent her husband from disposing of his property to her detriment. When served with notice of the suit Jones went to the home of his brother-in-law, John Cosgrove, and flashed the court writ before his wife.

Before she could speak he shot her. As Cosgrove and his sister, Miss Catherine Cosgrove, tried to intercede, he turned on them. They fled and he shot them in the back. His son Harry, 18 years old, escaped by fleeing down an alley. A crowd attracted by the shots tried to capture Jones but failed.

Miss Bittner was taken into custody as a witness. She said she did not know Jones intended to kill anyone when she accompanied him to see his wife.

Katy Officers Think Attempt Was Made to Wreck Two Trains

Special officers of the M. K. & T. are working upon the theory that obstructions found on both the north and south bound tracks of the Katy near the city limits to the west early yesterday morning were placed on the track with the intention of wrecking the two o'clock flyer from St. Louis to San Antonio, and the flyer from Galveston to St. Louis which passes through the city about 4:30 a. m.

The southbound flyer, after stopping at the station at Eighth and Jackson streets, almost ran into a large pile of driftwood on the track near the Waco Cash & Door factory. The locomotive headlight revealed the obstruction in time for the engineer to bring his train to a standstill with the pilot of the engine within a few feet of the pile.

A large cross-tie on the track used by the north bound flyer near Seventeenth and Jackson streets was discovered by a train crew and removed before the obstructions were large enough to send a train into the ditch.

SAINT PAUL'S CHURCH TO HAVE MEMORIAL GIFT

The first of October will find still another handsome memorial placed in Saint Paul's church. This will be a cathedral chair, accompanied by the smaller chancel seats. The chair is the only memorial, the accompanying seats having been made possible through donations to Mrs. William Talley, president of the Altar society. The name of the donor and the name of the parish memorialized will not be made known until the dedication service.

WOMAN'S DAY AT THE HUACO TO BE THE BEST OF ALL

With the visiting golfers from all parts of the state at the Huaco club next Thursday, the Woman's Day lunch promises to be the best ever. It is expected that the golfers will all prefer lunch at the club so the women must be out to entertain them. Thursday during July out at the Huaco proved the notable events of mid-season society. There will be no special hostesses for Thursday of this week. It is the intention of the committee to concentrate upon the monthly rather than the weekly Woman's Day for August and September.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE RECEIVES DEATH KNEEL

After all these years, notwithstanding the memory of our grandmother's time-revered recipe, they do tell it that the strawberry shortcake is doomed. Doomed why? Because a something better has returned to take its place; at least, some table cham-noiseurs say so. The new dish championed is the strawberry pot pie. It seems that this dessert is but returning to its own, for, back on the farm, it was once superior to the shortcake. This "pot" is the cobbler and the dumpling. Sounds good, does it not? Let us see what it brings for next strawberry season.

COMMITTEE HAS MET FOR CHILDREN'S PAGEANT

On Saturday afternoon, Mrs. J. M. Hale was in conference with her committee for Children's Day at the Cotton Palace. Mrs. Hale is the author of the first real pageant ever shown in Texas. The term pageant, is susceptible to variation but the pageant as England has revived it, is the cross between the portrayal by voice, movement and pantomime of the several episodes which go to present the history of a certain event. The Children's Pageant for the Cotton Palace will portray Waco from the time of legend to the present day, using seven periods. Each episode is to be worked out by a special member of Mrs. Hale's committee. They are enthusiastic over what is in prospect and will at once begin thinking along the line of costumes, children, and other details. W. O. Wilkes, general chairman, was just home from Galveston, where he saw what was called the great Children's Pageant. Mrs. Wilkes pronounced this something well worth the seeing, but an entirely different view-point for a pageant from what the Cotton Palace will present. Mrs. Hale has added the invaluable service of Miss Emma Beer to the committee she has already announced.

SEVERAL WEDDING NOTES

COME OF HOME INTEREST
The first announcement of the marriage of Miss Eddie May Higgins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Higgins, West Austin, is made. The wedding will take place on Saturday evening in the home of the bride, and in the presence of relatives and a very few friends, Miss Higgins will become the bride of Ben C. Moulton, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company. This is an event of social note, since both Miss Higgins and Mr. Moulton have wide acquaintance. The ceremony will be followed by a delightful repast at the home of the bride, where a month will be spent at the Galvez. The Henderson-Suggs marriage takes place in the bride's home on Wednesday.

The marriage of Wilbur Crawford to Miss Winifred Otis of Chicago is an event for the first week in September. The evening wedding marriage took place in the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. S. J. Quay of Webster street, Bell's Hill, has been followed by the going into the new home in Mineola, where Mr. Adams will be in charge of the school.

CITY FEDERATION OF CLUBS TAKES UP SUMMER WORK

On Monday, Mrs. J. W. Downs, acting president of the City Federation of Literary clubs, after consultation with her executive board, signed for a new venture in club work. There is now available throughout the country a set of one hundred and fifty films, especially for children in the picture shows. These are sent by the national committee for relief babies. All over the country, the summer months find baby camps, fresh air excursions for the babies, even a great boat donated for mothers and babies, supplied with hospital, restaurant, games and other relief from the congested city districts. Texas has a Baby Camp under the auspices of the club women in Dallas. This has done a wonderful work in the relief of babies. Waco club women, believe that with a public health nurse to find out needy cases and to report, there will be need for this emergency fund for the babies of Waco. Believing this, the club women have entered into contract with the Hippodrome management for the entrance of Waco into this circuit for the children's films. The presidents of the clubs will meet half hour before the children are admitted each week to censor the film. Half the proceeds will go to the City Federation.

The opportunity is now here for the women of the city at large to follow their words by their deeds, that is, to patronize the reels which they have investigated and know to be suitable for the children. The idea with Mrs. Downs and her committee is that each Saturday morning, a special club will be responsible for having a good attendance. The fund accruing will be given as donation from the City Federation to the board of control for the public nurse. The contract holds as long as the club women desire, the feels being shown every Saturday from 10 to 12 o'clock.

On next Saturday the Hippodrome will invite to inaugurate the picture hour for children only, the children of the Orphanage, the Boy Scouts, the Camp Fire Girls and the Working Boys club.

Society Notes

Today at Providence sanitarium Mrs. N. W. Stephens of Bosque Boulevard, will have operation for appendicitis. (Cretone) has its inning this season; cretone hat crowns; cretone coats, what is there not in milady's wardrobe that is not cretone.

Following their sojourn at Ingleside, Mrs. Clarence Hubby and Miss Van Hook are now enjoying the summer gaviety of Corpus Christi.

News from Miss Fern Thurman, who is recuperating out at Vernon, is quite encouraging as to Miss Thurman's early restoration to health.

Mrs. H. R. Dedmon has, within the past few days, become matron of the Green cottage on North Seventeenth street, near Bosque Boulevard.

Miss Elizabeth Patton has completed her visit with Miss Polly Huet in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and is now with her relatives in Ohio, where Mrs. Patton joins her within the next week.

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes, Mrs. William Neale, Mrs. Marian Herz, with the Misses Ruth Lennox and Ella Peterson were a party of Wacoans shown attention at the Galveston carnival late in the past week.

It makes us begin to feel that we must pluck the last rose of summer, now that the stay-at-home, receiving word of dear set for the return of absentees. Really, summer life in Texas has not been so very bad.

The Calliopean and the R. C. B. societies of Baylor university are going on record as the first unit of the men's department of the state. The Calliopeans have challenged the R. C. B's and have been accepted. Something interesting is coming.

Today notes the arrival of Mrs. James Harrison, with the Misses Sara and Virginia Harrison, of Beaumont. They have been guests in the C. A. Westbrook home at Lorena, and come for a week with Mrs. T. C. Westbrook at Meadowbrook Farm.

While we are raising our interest to fever heat over the Better Babies and Children's Pageant for the Cotton Palace, we must have some of our enthusiasm for Mrs. Marian Herz's plans for Woman's Day, South Austin, going with Mrs. Herz and her helpers.

Miss Neilson Gillespie has devoted her extended absence in study of the latest in fancy dancing. In New York city first, and now in San Francisco, Miss Gillespie has had the best of the city, followed by the best of the engagement in San Francisco. She will be at home with the first of September.

Mrs. R. G. Patton, one of the brightest women of this city, and an unusually modest one, is "discovered" some times. This last is the original poem of Mrs. Patton, something truly a poem, on social service. By urgent request, it appears in the last number of the "Tidings", the parish paper for Saint Paul's congregation.

Morning News readers certainly are indebted to Miss Miriam Suhler's clear, comprehensive description of life at Universal, which she appeared on Sunday morning. Miss Suhler gave insight into the preparation of a moving picture film, denied us so far; a very entertaining subject, handled in a very intelligent way.

Takes Over Plants at Frost and Thorndale

Frost and Thorndale have been added to the Texas Power & Light company, the plants at both places now being under the charge of that company. Electric lines are also being installed by the Texas Power & Light company in many places, among the latest being Lancaster, Milford, Italy and Hillsboro.

The Texas Power & Light company on August 1 took over the property of the electric light company at Frost, Texas. Service will be rendered by means of a transmission line tapping the main line at Hillsboro.

The electric department of the Thorndale water and light company has been purchased by the Texas Power & Light company, and was taken over for operation on August 1. As over for the transmission line now being built from Waco to Taylor is completed Thorndale will be served from Taylor by another transmission line. A partition, signed by the citizens of Thorndale, granting the Texas Power & Light company the right to do business in Thorndale has been secured.

This means that Thorndale will soon have an unlimited supply of electric light and power for every purpose.

Big Crowds Attend Opening Day of R. T. Dennis Sale

The first day of the big semi-annual clearance sale of the R. T. Dennis company yesterday, was a record-breaker both in the number of persons visiting the store and in the amount of sales. The already large force of salesmen has been increased, every man had his hands full yesterday and early in the day it was seen that the sale would set the pace for all future merchandise events of its class. As detailed fully in their page advertisement in Sunday's Morning News, R. T. Dennis & Co. have placed bargain prices on every article in their big stock.

The Dennis reputation for completeness and quality of furniture stocks insures that when the people of Waco and this section only receive notice that special prices will be offered, a large attendance may be expected.

Cotton Palace Music May Be Furnished by Cavallo's Band

Cavallo's band, now playing at Electric park, Kansas City, is being considered as the musical organization to furnish the concerts at the Cotton Palace this year. Postmaster W. H. It is probable that the directors will decide upon what band is to play here at a meeting some time this week.

Patrolman Spiller Is Still Improving

Continued improvement in the condition of Patrolman Rolon Spiller was reported yesterday by physicians, who are attending him at the Providence sanitarium. Patrolman Spiller was shot on his beat on North Second street Wednesday night by Wesley Crippen, white, who is now in the county jail. A turn for the better in Patrolman Spiller's condition last Saturday has resulted in continued improvement until almost all danger is now passed, according to physicians.

THAT $5,000,000 SLUSH FUND.

In view of the stories appearing in some of the anti-prohibition papers to the effect that the Anti-Saloon League of America would raise a $5,000,000 fund with which to defeat President Wilson and put some prohibitionist in the White House, the following editorial from the pen of Dr. A. J. Barton, state superintendent of the league in Texas, in the last issue of Home and State, is informing:

"Some of the papers are troubled and some are almost raving about the five million dollar fund, which was raised right on the spot, cash in hand, at the Atlantic City convention, to control the next presidential election and especially to defeat President Wilson. Let these good friends calm their heated and excited brains. The fight is wholly unnecessary. There was no five million dollars raised; if there had been it would not be used in the next presidential election, much less to defeat President Wilson. For two years the Anti-Saloon league has been raising funds with which to accomplish national prohibition along the line of its broad, non-partisan policies, which policies it restated at the recent convention with great emphasis. At this convention impetus was given to this campaign for funds. It is hoped sincerely that the amount may reach $5,000,000, and that within five years we may have national prohibition. It seems quite impossible for the average partisan editor to get a broad, non-partisan view of such matters, or else for him to be honest and refrain from the methods and tricks of the demagogue. Some of our editorial brethren do themselves or their readers small credit. Let the friends of prohibition in Texas be fully informed on one point, namely, whatever they see in the pro-liquor press about the Anti-Saloon league and its work, they may know in advance. It is not so."

The Anti-Saloon league is a non-partisan organization and its chief aim is to drive the saloon out of America. In that undertaking it has necessarily aroused the enmity of the liquor interests and the opposition of those papers and other agencies which are opposed to prohibition. But the papers which do not approve of the plans and purposes of the league should at least exercise care not to misrepresent those purposes in the discussion of the league and its work. The Anti-Saloon league is engaged in a patriotic task and a task that sooner or later will be accomplished.

WHERE THE BLAME LIES.

Answering a criticism by the Dallas News of the action of the citizens of Bell county in general and Temple in particular in the burning of Will Stanley, alleged negro murderer and rapist, the Temple Telegram says in part:

"When the negro was caught by the officers, the negro wearing the trousers of the man whose home had been assaulted, the officers attempted to lodge him in the Belton jail; being intercepted by parties in automobiles the officers managed to hide the prisoner in a secluded place while other officers misled the pursuers on to Belton. Finding that the officers had deceived them the pursuers returned to the place where the prisoner had been hidden. From that time the officers were not able to direct the course of events except by argument, which they used to such advantage that hours were spent in examining the evidence against the prisoner. The people carefully considered the arguments offered by the officers and permitted every effort to establish the innocence of the prisoner at the bar. For the people were very careful in their deliberations, to the end that the guilty man should not escape. The officers did their duty nobly. They held the prisoner from his fate for many hours, although the officers were powerless to do more. The circumstances were such that it was impossible to divert the people from their purpose, the negro's guilt having been established."

This answer of the Telegram, in our opinion, fixes the blame for the lynching in that it shows that the officers did not employ the proper effort in shielding the life of the prisoner. These officers must have known the public state of mind in Bell county. Their knowledge of the actions of enraged people should have convinced them that to carry the suspected negro to Belton would have been to endanger his life, for outrages of the character perpetrated against the Grimes family are likely to arouse in all but the best-balanced people a disposition to override the law and all the restrictions of organized society in order to give vent to their enraged feelings. Cameron, Georgetown, Marlin, Waco, and other county seats were near by and available for the safe-keeping of the prisoner, and granting that the mob would have gone to any one of these places, stormed the jail and executed the negro, the officers would at least have had the consciousness of having done their best to give the prisoner the full protection of the law.

Some of our contemporaries, in speaking of the injury that has been done Temple in having the lynching take place on its public square in the presence of 10,000 people—indicating popular approval—have dwelt upon the bad reputation it will give the town, and this is a factor to be considered. But that is not the worst factor. The baneful influences upon the citizens who became a part of the mob and who lent the lynching their endorsement by cheering on the leaders, is the worst element, aside from the disposition to ignore the law and take matters into their own hands. No one who saw the negro burned at the stake and dragged through the fire by trace chains, or who took portions of his charred body and remnants of the funeral pyre as souvenirs, or who gazed with satisfaction upon the distorted corpse as it hung suspended from a telephone cross-bar in a prominent section of the city, can but feel all his finer sensibilities deadened to a degree from such an experience.

Temple is a good town and Bell county people are good people, but they blundered in lynching the negro when there was every assurance that he would be meted the death he deserved, and that in a very short length of time, through the regular channels of the law. Persons cannot commit blunders of this character and escape the stain of it, no matter where they live, and the Morning News would have been just as firmly opposed to the lynching, had the outrage which it was presumed to expiate, occurred in the vicinity of Waco instead of Temple.

PROMOTIONS WITHOUT EXAMINATIONS.

"Few schools now rely entirely upon examinations as a test for promotion," declares W. S. Deffenbaugh, chief of the division of school administration of the United States Bureau of Education, in his annual review of school conditions in the smaller cities.

"In some schools examinations are made to count one-half, while in others they count only one-fourth. It is now recognized that examinations are not true tests of the pupil's ability to do the next grade's work, and that a pupil should not be promoted on what he knows, but on what he can do. Of 756 superintendents in the smaller cities reporting, 669 say that they are now depending on examinations much less than formerly."

How pupils shall be classified so that they may advance through the grades without loss of time is a question that is continually presenting itself to thoughtful superintendents, according to Mr. Deffenbaugh, and some cities are undertaking special experiments in this field.

In Carthage, N. Y., all those children who cannot read are started on their educational journey in much the same way. Gradually they are regrouped into three divisions: The first, composed of the most mature and most capable, completes a certain amount of work in one year; the next group is given one and one-half years in which to accomplish the same amount, and the third two years. Before the close of the first year each of the three groups is likely to be divided again into the higher and lower. Therefore each pupil who enters in the fall with no knowledge of the books has before him the possibility of being in any one of six groups before the close of the first year. There is a special teacher in the lower grades who devotes her time to misfits—those pupils who for some reason or other cannot do all of their work to the best advantage in any of the regular groups. This teacher coaches backward pupils and helps the brilliant ones to jump to the next higher division.

In East Chicago, Ind., a child is promoted at any time the teacher and supervisors feel he would be benefited. The plan is to pass pupils if they are doing their best, even if the grades are low.

The superintendent of schools in Williamsburg, Va., reports: "We use the shifting group plan of grading pupils and a form of reports to parents that keep parents thoroughly informed as to the pupil's standing during the year. As each weakness of a pupil is discovered by the teacher, it becomes a matter of special consideration and study by teacher, parents, principal, and the pupil. Tentative shifts can be made at any time. The aim is to relieve the teacher of all red tape and to reduce routine to the minimum, but to insist upon a constant and sympathetic study of the child—every child—but particularly every child who is in danger of falling behind his class. No percentages or grades are accepted from a teacher as excuses for promotion or demotion. If a pupil is weak, efforts are made to ascertain the exact nature of his weakness early in the term and remedy it."

In the effort of Mrs. Becker, wife of the lately executed police lieutenant of New York City, to brand Governor Whitman as a murderer through the wording of a silver plate which she had placed on her husband's casket, she lost a great deal of the sympathy which her confidence in and loyal devotion to her husband aroused for her. If her husband was guilty, he has met his just reward. If he was innocent, time will clear his name. Mrs. Becker should accept the verdict of the law and find her consolation now, not in denouncing the officers of the law, but in cherishing in her memory the good qualities which she said her husband possessed. Not to do so is to prove herself less a heroine than she appeared in the dramatic struggle she made to save his life.

FARMERS' CONGRESS CONVENES AT A. & M.

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL SESSION IS SMALL AS TO ATTENDANCE BUT ENTHUSIASTIC.

JOHN GORHAM, WACO, SPEAKS

Vice President Congress in Plea for Improved Living Conditions on Farm.

College Station, Aug. 2.—That the United States is facing a crisis from an economic standpoint and that it must concern itself more seriously with the problems of larger production of food stuff to feed the ever-increasing population, was a statement made by Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins, professor of soils at the University of Illinois, before the opening session of Texas farmers' congress this morning. Dr. Hopkins discussed "the relation of land to prosperity" increased yields to the acre were urged as the solution of these problems.

The eighteenth annual session of the Texas farmers' congress convened at the A. & M. College this morning with an enthusiastic although small attendance. This evening the various affiliated organizations, twenty-four in number, met in separate sessions.

This morning's session opened with an invocation by Rev. J. C. Welsh of the First Christian church at Bryan. The address of welcome was delivered by President W. B. Bizzell, who discussed new ideas in government and predicted an era of increased service and usefulness for the agricultural colleges of the land.

John Gorham of Waco, vice-president of the congress delivered the response to the address of welcome. He made a plea for improved living conditions on the farm and said that when the old idea of a lop-sided shack surrounded by weeds as a typical farm home is dissipated, that boys and girls will be more ready to stay on the farm.

In his annual address, H. E. Singleton, president of the congress, urged more care in the development of the rural school system and expressed gratitude at the governor's bill providing $1,000,000 for rural schools.

The merging of all agencies looking towards the promotion of agricultural intelligence under one governing board was another suggestion.

Secretary-treasurer C. O. Moser of Dallas made his report, showing the affairs of the congress to be in good shape.

The appointment of commissioners was announced as follows:

Finance—C. O. Moser, Dallas; L. Gough, Hereford; E. J. Kyle, A. & M. College.

Resolution—E. W. Kirkpatrick, McKinney; Fritz Engelhardt, Eagle Lake; A. L. Ferguson, Sherman.

Educational—J. N. Ramsey, Austin; M. Falkner, Waco; Rufus J. Nelson, Dallas.

Gorham's Address.

John Gorham, R. F. D. 3, of Waco, in his response to the address of welcome, said:

"In behalf of the agricultural masses of Texas, I have been asked to respond to this most hearty address of welcome delivered to us by the president of this great and grand institution of learning, which is now doing and is destined to become the greatest factor in the upbuilding and the means by which our agricultural masses will rise to their proper level, high socially and commercially. Therefore, Mr. President, familiar as you are with mankind endowed with natural ability and having made the needs of man a specialty from childhood and, as you look into the faces of this great body of farmers and other business interests that are here with that deep-seated, inquiring expression, stamped so plainly upon every face, depicting upon their every feature a thirst for knowledge, you will most certainly be filled with renewed inspiration to put forward your very best efforts to supply that need, which is Education."

"Yellow faced, it is to your credit that you are here in attendance at this agricultural meeting and it is a very evident fact that we are after something that is worth while and that we are beginning to think of the things of which we have to do, i. e., the soil and its products."

"I say here and now, boldly, too, without any fear of contradiction that the farmer of the future will be the educated farmer; and this coming together as we have this morning is one of the great avenues through which we may obtain that education, so vital to us not only from an agricultural standpoint, but as a nation, for it is a fact known of all thinking men that agriculture is the basis and foundation whereon every business that is worth while is built and as an evidence of this fact you will find here in our midst the very best representatives from every business that is worth while from the boot-black to the banker, here, too, in a spirit of promotion and help, lending their hands to the farmer and with their means in every way possible, and I for one and why shouldn't we all, salute you most cordially, Brother Business Man, from the other spheres of life and extend to you the hearty hand of welcome and co-operation to place agriculture on its proper level, for by and through co-operation only can we ever hope to reach that sphere in life that will do our rural sections with lovely homes and happy homes, and I may say, too, the city is wholly dependent upon the same co-operation for its future welfare, tending toward family happiness and prosperity, and may I here add our cities are, so will it be with our rural sections, and visa versa, as our rural sections are, so will our cities be, and there are both true, and I believe it is, does it not look wise to all to have as our motto entwined in our very life and flowing through our veins every moment that we live the words 'with all of its lovely meanings—Co-operation.'"

Benefit from Meeting.

Now, at this time, let us take advantage of the opportunity offered us, especially at this meeting, and listen carefully and attentively to the lectures and themes carefully prepared by men of ability, that fact you will find here in our midst the very best representatives from every business that is worth while from the boot-black to the banker, here, too, in a spirit of promotion and help, lending their hands to the farmer and with their means in every way possible, and I for one and why shouldn't we all, salute you most cordially, Brother Business Man, from the other spheres of life and extend to you the hearty hand of welcome and co-operation to place agriculture on its proper level, for by and through co-operation only can we ever hope to reach that sphere in life that will do our rural sections with lovely homes and happy homes, and I may say, too, the city is wholly dependent upon the same co-operation for its future welfare, tending toward family happiness and prosperity, and may I here add our cities are, so will it be with our rural sections, and visa versa, as our rural sections are, so will our cities be, and there are both true, and I believe it is, does it not look wise to all to have as our motto entwined in our very life and flowing through our veins every moment that we live the words 'with all of its lovely meanings—Co-operation.'" with a deep-seated desire to own and to have more comfortable and convenient homes wherein to rear our sons and daughters in such a manner that they, too, will love the farm and stay on it and develop there into manhood and womanhood, such as will be an honor to their country and their God, for let me tell you here and now that the day for the lopsided shack surrounded by weeds and other undesirable things, and called a farm home, is a thing of the past, and will no longer be tolerated by our present sons and daughters who, being reared in a time when the word "Progress" is being used so much and stands for everything that will uplift the human family, for I have seen and you have, too, and possibly now know of farm houses that are utterly distasteful to the young men and women that are being reared and trained and at their first opportunity are ready to bid the farm good-bye in disgust, believing from their experience that there is nothing in farm life worth while. I insist that there is no need for such conditions to exist on the farm and that the reverse should be true, for all wealth is produced out of the soil and its products, and it will remain on the farm if properly managed, for the prosperity and happiness of those who produce same.

So let us who are here at this meeting strive to profit by everything that is done and said in order that we may go to our different homes better fitted for the duties of life, and that is to be able to disseminate that which we have gathered while here to our unfortunate neighbor who was for some reason unable to be at this meeting, thereby co-operating with the very best people to bring about results that will bring happiness and comfort to all.

U. S. Troops to Guard Border.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 2.—Four troops of United States cavalry were sent out today from Harlingen, San Benito and Brownsville, Tex., to guard United States neutrality with Mexico and to attempt to prevent roving bands of Mexicans who have been operating in this vicinity recently, from returning to Mexican soil.

Sheriff Vann of Brownsville, reported tonight he was about half an hour behind a band of alleged raiders.

Nogales to Be Bombarded.

Douglas, Ariz., Aug. 2.—General Calles, commanding Carranza forces at Agua Prieta, today confirmed a report that he sent a message to the consul at Nogales yesterday warning non-combatants to leave, as he intended to bombard Nogales, Sonora, with bombs from aeroplanes. He set no date for the attack.

A special from Nogales says that several thousand persons participated in a hunger parade at Hermosillo, capital of Sonora, Friday night. Merchants at once began raising a fund to relieve suffering.

Calles is moving his headquarters to Santa Cruz, half way between Cananea and Nogales, and is bringing up artillery.

EXPECT HUNG JURY IN ELDER MURDER CASE

ATTORNEYS FOR BOTH SIDES COMPLETE SPEECHES AT 5 O'CLOCK MONDAY.

More Than Twenty Character Witnesses Testify—Court Room Is Crowded.

Marlin, Tex., Aug. 2.—The Elder case has finally gone to the jury, the attorneys for both sides concluding their speeches at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Late tonight the jury has reached no agreement and it is freely predicted about the city the trial will result in a hung jury.

During the morning some twenty-odd character witnesses were introduced to testify regarding the reputation for truth and veracity of several witnesses on either side, after which court adjourned until 2 o'clock, when Judge Munroe read his charge. Ben Rice led off for the state, being followed by Hon. George Carter, attorney for the defense. County Attorney Tom Bartlett closed for the state.

The court room was crowded this afternoon during the speaking, the witnesses that have been in waiting on the outside for the past eight days, along with their friends, alone adding considerably to the number already drawn to the court house through interested curiosity.

In the speaking, the questions of land tenancy and the oppression of the poor by those more fortunate was featured by the prosecution, as they claimed it was always easy to secure testimony derogatory to the reputation of the poor, whereas it was hard to get witnesses to testify against the reputation of the rich of their community.

Conflict in Probe of Eastland Disaster

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Conflict between the department of commerce and States Attorney Maclay Hoyne arose today during the investigation of the steamer Eastland disaster because Robert Reid and C. C. Eckliff, federal steamboat inspectors, who gave the Eastland its last license, were brought handcuffed before Secretary of Commerce Redfield and the steamboat inspection service board. They were in charge of a deputy sheriff, having been arrested on a coroner's mittimus.

Application for a writ of habeas corpus to take the inspectors from state officers was filed with Federal Judge Landis, who will hear the case tomorrow.

States Attorney Hoyne said he would oppose their removal from the jurisdiction of the state. Mr. Hoyne said he did not order the sheriff to handcuff the inspectors.

As inspectors Reid and Eckliff had virtually been subpoenaed before the federal grand jury, it was decided they should not again be asked to give evidence before the secretary of commerce's board.

No bodies were recovered from the Eastland today, the known dead remaining at 839 and 142 still reported missing.

THE BLINDNESS OF VIRTUE

THE BLINDNESS OF VIRTUE

"The Blindness of Virtue."

A moral play which has been endorsed wherever shown is "The Blindness of Virtue," the film adaptation of which play is to be offered to patrons of the Hippodrome for the last time today. This picture, produced by the Essanay company and featuring Edna Mayo and Bryant Washburn, illustrates the dangers of ignorance of young girls and sternly calls the attention of mothers to their duties of motherhood.

Effie Pemberton is a young girl of seventeen. She has never been told of the fundamental principles of life and has been brought up in absolute ignorance and ignorance of the sex problem. She and Archie become fast friends. Winstanley, a friend of Archie's, comes to the village to visit him. He is a shallow pated youth, with no moral principles. He meets Mary Ann, a beautiful girl, the daughter of a washwoman in the village. She longs for pretty clothes and all the gaieties she has been denied and being as innocent of life as Effie, is persuaded by Winstanley to elope to London.

with him. Archie follows them with the intention of saving her from his friend. In this he fails. He returns to the vicarage early in the morning. Effie, in her innocence, rushes to his room in her kimono, to tell him how glad she is to see him again. He tries to get her out of the room but she refuses to go.

The minister bursts into the room and accuses Archie of evil intentions. Archie, in an honest indignation, tells the minister some wholesome truths, about his leaving his daughter in such total ignorance, which opens his eyes. Mary Ann returns home, a wreck of her former self, and tells the minister her story. Pemberton and his wife then awake to the fact that girls are more likely to go wrong through innocence than in any other way. Effie is told the great truths of life. Finally Archie and Effie discover that they have been in love and they receive the blessing of her parents.

COTTON

New York, Aug. 2.—The government's report making the condition as of July 25 75.3 per cent against 80.2 last month and a ten-year average of 78.5 per cent was followed today by a sharp advance in the cotton market here; but the demand seemed to be fairly even, the way of covering by shorts and prices later eased off with the close steady at a net decline of 2 to 3 points.

Reports that southern mills manufacturing colored goods are to close down owing to the scarcity of dyes probably contributed to the early selling movement, but bearish traders seemed to derive their chief encouragement from the reports of showers in the late afternoon. Crude oil offerings remain light. Sales 14,400 barrels.

New York, Aug. 2.—Cotton seed oil was firm, closing 9 to 10 points net higher. The advance was attributed to the bullish government report on cotton, with consequent active covering of local shorts. Crude oil offerings remain light. Sales 14,400 barrels.

New Orleans.
New Orleans, Aug. 2.—The bullish condition report from the government, as well as bullish features in the annual statistics, had no more than a passing influence on prices in the cotton market today. The close was at a net loss of 2 to 3 points. In the early trading the market lost 10 points. Soon after the condition report was issued at 11 o'clock the market stood 20 to 25 points up from the lowest, but the rise was not maintained.

Offerings increased, a good part of them apparently coming from long, and the market gradually sagged off.

The early loss was due to scattered rains over the belt yesterday. The condition report of 7.3 per cent of the normal, showing a loss of 5 points for the month, was fully 3 points lower than the consensus of opinion.

Galveston, Aug. 2.—Cotton middling 8 7/16, receipts 1382, sales 215, stock 111, 129 bales.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Frost, black rust and wet weather left no chance today for the bears in wheat. The market closed at a net advance of 1 1/2 to 2 cts. Corn closed at a net advance of 1/4 to 1/2 cts. and oats at 1/4 to 1/2 cts. Provisions finished unchanged to 1/2 cts. higher.

Despite occasional moderate reactions wheat bulls had the advantage throughout the day. At the start reports of wet weather damage and of delay in shipping of wheat from the Canadian belt stimulated the buying here. Still later a dispatch from a leading crop expert telling of black rust on every stalk in fields of wheat around Fargo, N. D., led to the strongest advance of the session.

For a while considerable selling of wheat resulted from a liberal increase of the domestic visible supply total. At another time the bears were somewhat aggressive because of an estimate credited to high authority that the yield in the United States this season would amount to a billion bushels, a sum never before reached.

Corn was swayed mainly by the wheat strength. Bearish crop estimates, however, were confined to some extent in checking the advance.

In the oats market firmness resulted from reports of rain interference with the harvest. Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska sent many complaints of the grain sprouting in the shocks.

Higher prices for hogs tended to lift provisions. Figures on contract stocks have turned out to be larger than had been generally expected.

THOMAS D. HAYS DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

WELL KNOWN INSURANCE MAN PASSES AWAY AT FAMILY RESIDENCE IN WACO.

WORKED WAY THROUGH SCHOOL

Funeral Services Will Be Held This Afternoon—Deceased Prominent in United Charities.

Thomas Daniel Hays, one of Waco's most prominent citizens, passed away at 6 o'clock last night, at his home, 1311 Austin avenue. Mr. Hays had been in ill health for three years, and it had been known for some time that his death was imminent.

Mr. Hays was born in Weakley county, Tennessee, June 8, 1852, being therefore 63 years of age. He was reared on a farm in the county of his nativity and before completing his education his mother died, leaving upon him the responsibility of caring for his two younger sisters, his father being an invalid. He obtained the larger part of his education at McKenzie college, McKenzie, Tenn., working in a store mornings, nights and Saturdays in order to make his college expenses.

In 1878 he went to Fulton, Ky., and entered a general merchandise establishment and there passed through the great yellow fever epidemic that came near blotting out the population of that town. In 1881 he came to Texarkana, where with his late brother, G. A. Hays, he engaged in the saw mill business in which he remained until the summer 1884 when he moved to Chicago and launched out in the real estate business. The climate there was against him, however, and he returned to Texarkana soon afterward, later the same year coming to Waco, where he entered the lumber business with his brother, G. A. Hays. In 1885, he sold his lumber business to William Cameron and company and remained with that firm as manager of their local yards until 1888, when he resigned to enter the fire insurance business. In this he was later joined by his brother, W. B. Hays and the name of the firm became Hays Bros.

On November 11, 1885, he married Miss Ida Moore, daughter of the late Dr. Thomas Moore, a pioneer resident of this city and county, and in addition to his widow he is survived by two sons, Thomas Moore Hays and Halbert Vincent Hays, a brother, W. B. Hays, and two sisters, Mrs. Ned Glover of McKenzie, Tenn., and Mrs. J. S. Gordon of Jackson, Tenn.

Mr. Hays was an active member of the Central Christian church since 1886, a director and active supporter of the Y. M. C. A., and one of the leaders in the work which resulted in the present building here, and had been for a number of years chairman of the relief committee of the United Charities.

The funeral will be conducted from the family residence at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. F. N. Calvin, pastor of the Central Christian church, in charge. Interment will be in Oakwood. The following pall bearers have been named: Active, W. B. Brazelton, Dr. J. R. Ferrell, Frank Wells, R. B. Spencer, W. P. Killingsworth, and N. S. Hill; honorary, C. L. Johnson, William Lambdin, W. D. Lacey, C. H. Higginson, J. P. Sample, A. R. McCollum, John F. Marshall, George Willig, W. B. Ragland, S. M. Hamilton, F. A. Winchell, W. T. Watt, Charles A. Boynton, Dr. J. W. Hale, and S. E. Stratton.

ROTARIANS RECEIVE HOUSTON MESSAGE

ADVANTAGES OF DEEP WATER RATES TOLD BY H. C. SCHUMACHER.

GOOD ROAD SYSTEM EXPLAINED

Judge George N. Denton Explains Method Used—Roll Call by Native States.

With a considerable saving in freight charges on both out-bound and in-bound freight, and free access to the wharfs, as a result of the newly established line of freight steamships between New York and Houston, the latter named city will be able to save hundreds of thousands of dollars to the shipping and jobbing interests of Texas every year, declared H. C. Schumacher, president of the Schumacher company, wholesale grocers, with headquarters in Houston, and prominent member of the Houston Rotary club in an address before the local Rotary club at its regular luncheon at the State House yesterday noon.

Anticipating a message of interest to the business men of the city the Rotarians had invited other business men of the city to attend the luncheon with the result that an exceptionally large crowd was on hand. And Mr. Schumacher was heard gladly. He made no pretensions to oratory, but made a clear statement of the business principles involved in the completion of Houston's efforts toward becoming a deep-water port, and was given a vote of thanks for his address. A vote of thanks was also extended the Houston club for sending him and James Hays Quarles who was associated with the speaker when they were boys, expressed his personal appreciation of the guest of the day.

Houston is the only city in the country that has matched its dollars with the view of the future, making a port possible, Mr. Schumacher began, recounting how the Houston people had voted bond issues to meet the proposition of the federal government to share half the expense of making the ship channel from the Gulf to Houston, a distance of fifty-five miles, navigable to large boats. In addition to this, Houston has voted bonds in the sum of $3,000,000 for building docks and wharves, and for the free port, all come to the shipping interests of Texas.

Texas Share Benefits.
And while Houston expended the money on these improvements with the view of reaping a direct benefit for herself, now that the channel has been deepened and the boat service secured, Houston, through her Rotary club, chamber of commerce and other organizations invites all Texas to share those blessings with her, and without charge of any kind to the Texans as the wharf privileges will be free, in striking contrast to conditions at Galveston, where, Mr. Schumacher said, the privileges had all been taken up by the Galveston Wharf company, which he characterized as a very selfish corporation.

Indicative of the vast savings which the bringing of freight fifty-five miles nearer inland at the same price that it costs to bring it to Galveston, and of bringing a shipping point that much nearer the shipper, Mr. Schumacher provided Rotarians with folders showing that the transportation cost would be reduced through Houston's securing steamship service, 7 cents per 100 pounds on first class freight, 6 cents on second class, 5 cents on third class, 3 cents on fourth class, 3 cents on fifth class, 3 cents on classes A and B, and 2 cents on classes C, D and E. Inbound and outbound rates between Houston and New York and other seaboard points are the same as those to Galveston, and the savings through routing freight to Houston is that Houston is fifty-five miles nearer to inland points in Texas and is entitled to the above reductions through being nearer to point in what the state railroad commission has defined as common point territory.

The speaker rapped Railroad Commissioner Earle B. Mayfield for his promise to the farmers of Texas to save them several million dollars a year by reducing the freight they had to pay on their cotton in case he were elected to the commission, and then turning around after he was elected and voting to abolish the Houston-Galveston differential where the charges on cotton were raised from 45 cents per 100 pounds to 51 cents per 100 pounds to Houston. This advance of 30 cents per bale on cotton amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars a year and was put on in order to help out Galveston, the speaker declared.

Advantages which Houston enjoys as a result of getting deep water and providing harbor facilities there indicate what Waco may expect when the Brazos is made navigable. Mr. Schumacher concluded, and he felt sure Waco would not want to be discriminated against after she had worked for improvements and privileges and obtained them.

Road System Explained.

Judge George N. Denton, the various county commissioners, R. J. Windrow, county road superintendent, and the various road foremen of the county, who were here yesterday attending the regular institute which Mr. Windrow holds for them, were present at the luncheon and Judge Denton explained the system of maintenance whereby the good roads that are now being constructed and all the other roadways of the county will be adequately maintained through the distribution of thirty small camps of men over the various roads, the foreman of each camp to be held responsible for keeping a certain stretch of road in good condition. If the work is neglected at any time, it is easy to fix the responsibility and get results.

There was another roll call of those present at yesterday's meeting, each man giving his age and place of birth and business. It developed that forty-one present were native Texans, five were from Kentucky, five from Tennessee, four from Missouri, four from Georgia, three each from North Carolina, Virginia and Germany, two each from Kansas and New York, and Arkansas, and one each from Alabama, North Dakota, Mississippi, Colorado, Wisconsin, Indiana and Louisiana. All the native Germans were applauded as they announced their place of birth.

NEW ORPHEUM OPENS TO CAPACITY HOUSE

KEYES SISTERS AND PLAYERS PLEASE IN INITIAL PRODUCTION OF "THE ROSARY."

Cozy Theatre Is Transformed Into Up-to-Date and Comfortable Place. Management Gratiified.

The Orpheum theatre, formerly known as "The Cozy," opened last night under new management and presented as its opening line the Keyes Sisters and their players in "The Rosary." This company will fill a two weeks' engagement at the Orpheum and the packed house which greeted them last night was enthusiastic in their reception of the first performance.

The leading character in "The Rosary" is Father Kelly and was exceptionally well presented by Mr. W. G.

An Easy Way to Increase Weight

GOOD ADVICE FOR THIN FOLKS.

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes unheeded. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into simple form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This master-stroke of modern chemistry is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through its re-generative, reconstructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to every starved, broken-down cell and tissue of your body. You can readily picture the result when this amazing transformation has taken place and you notice how your cheeks fill out, hollows about your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you take on from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, expensive, efficient. Powers-Kelly Drug Co. and other leading druggists of Waco and vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

Caution—While Sargol has given excellent results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles it should not be taken by those who do not wish to gain ten pounds or more.

Bond. Those of his support deserving mention were Miss Dot Keyes, who played the part of the vivacious niece of the priest, Mrs. Burton Keyes as the droll servant who never laughed and Mr. Chet Keyes as Lee Martin (Skeeters) who furnished some real comedy throughout the piece. Several laughable stunts were pulled between curtains and altogether the first performance at The Orpheum was well received.

The house has been made both beautiful and comfortable and the interior could hardly be recognized by those who patronized the old Cozy. "The Rosary" will be given again tonight, and tomorrow night when the bill will be changed for the remainder of the week.

Henry Little, the manager, received many compliments both over house and attraction. He expressed himself as being very much gratified at the auspicious beginning. High class vaudeville will be given at the Orpheum on and after August 30.
